Chicago, May 29 .- The weather ruled the grain markets today. Hot, dry winds sent them up sharply and alter-nate promises of rain and frost kept them nervous, but in the end a desire to even up the rates over tomorrow's holiday resulted in a lower close than yesterday. Provisions were strong and higher on light receipts of hogs and outside buying orders. Wheat opened with a bulge of cents per bushel and for about half an hour it looked as if it had gone up to stay. About the end of that time, however, the signal service prediction took a hand in the game and threw its influence on the bears. It predicted With the idea of giving as many of the players of the city an opportunity to use the grounds, the club voted this spring to reduce the entrance fee to $1 wheat they owned at the close of to to to use the grounds, the club voted this spring to reduce the entrance fee to $1 and apportion the actual expenses monthly among the members. They applied the brakes and slowed up to give the boys a chance to get over. All but one boys a chance to get over. All but one succeeded. They set the brake with such force as to throw the rear wheel of the velocipede from the rail. Both men fell but were fortunate enought to catch themselves, otherwise both would have been precipitated to the huge rocks thirty feet below. The boys were badly bruised.

HOW CLEVELAND WORKS.

An Instance of His System In a Recen An instance of President Cleveland's method of work is found in his handling of a recent pardon case. A western lawyer of good family and character, while engage ed in the collection business, thoughtlessly used the United States mails for the pur of making threats against deb pose of making threats against debtors. He did this quite systematically and was getting along swimmingly as a collector of had debts until some worm turned on him, had him arrested, and a cruel law and unfeeling court actually put him behind the bars for his offense.

It was pretty severe punishment, considering everything, and the president was asked to take the case up and look it over. He sat up till 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning twice in order to wade through the transcript and briefs. When a friend of the condemned called at the White House to see what the president was willing to do about the matter, it was found the president, with all his industry, had not acquainted himself fully with a minor feature of the case. It was not very impor-tant, but Mr. Cleveland felt so bad about having overlooked the point that he "Just let it go till tomorrow. Then I will go through these papers once more, and then I will have the whole case in my mind."-Chicago Times Herald.

DOLE'S GIFT TO A CHILD. The Hawaiian President Remembers Ille

Young Namesake. Carl Klemme of San Francisco, who was formerly one of the captains of mount-ed police at Honolulu under President Sanford B. Dole, has an elegant drinking cup, which was presented to his youngest child, Sanford Klemme, by President Dole, who desired to legally adopt the boy.

Captain Klemme's little wen was the first white child born at Honolulu, or on the Island of Oahu, after the landing of the Boston's forces and the overthrow of Queen Liliuokalani by reason of the events that followed. The following words are engraved on the cup: "From Sanford B. Dole, President of Prop. the H. I., to Sanford F. E. Klemme. Honolulu, 1894." President Dole and Mrs. Dole are the child's godfather and godmother. Just before Captain Klemme's departure from Honolulu Mrs. Dolo, who is childless, vis ited the wife of Captain Klemme and tried to persuade that lady to allow her child to be adopted by the president and his wife.

The mother's affections, however, proved a barrier to the president's ambition.
Though the Doles made promises that they would do everything possible to make the

There is a family of brothers and sisters in Pennsylvania remarkable alike for their longevity and for the regular sequence of their ages. There has never been a death among them, and all live together near the village of Denver.

Their names and ages are Benneville Leisey, aged 75; Sophia, widow of Lanac Bechtel, aged 75; Polly, wife of Joseph Foltz, aged 75; Sallie Leisey, unmarried, aged 72; Frank Leisey, aged 71; Benlen Leisey, aged 69; Daniel Leisey, aged 67; Susan, wife of Samuel Slabach, aged 62. All the members of this family circle are well preserved and all look much younger than they really are.-New York Sun.
